FROM THE VICTORIA

JOB PRINTING JURISDICTION TO JUSTICES IN CIVIL SUITS.

The Bill that was read a second time of Wednesday last will, if passed in its present shape, import into our colonial system of jurisprudence several novelties at present unknown to the English law. In the first place, giving a civil juri diction to Justices of the Peace (although not without precedent in the colonies) is entirely opposed to the practice of any amount, great or small, with the sim. ple exception of claims for wages, and the nant to all modern legislation, as also the power intended to be given to Constato commit a debtor to jail. Indeed it is a power that was never recognized or given by the English law, even in the most rigorous days of imprisonment for debt.

We perfectly concur with the sentiment expressed in the second clause of the preamble. There can be no doubt whatever that the accumulation of business in the courts held in Victoria causes great delay in the collection of small debts, but if anyone can hold the opinion that the transfer of the jurisdiction in summary suits from the Chief Justice to the Police Magistrate in Victoria, would facilitate the despatch of business, let him attend at the Police Court on the trial of any wages suit, and he will speedily learn that the justices of the peace have no magic power of disposing of the cases that come before them with a rapidity that does not appertain to civil

This bill, however, can hardly be taken to apply to Victoria at all, for it does not repeal the present jurisdiction of the Inferior Court of Civil Justice of Vancouver Island as established under Orders in Council of 1856 and only proposes to give to a single justice of the peace, concurrent jurisdiction with the Chief Justice over claims of less than $106, and to two justices the same concurrent jurisdiction in cases up to $250.

Will this, we ask, be an effectual remedy against the evils enumerated in the preamble sgainst the ovils enumerated in the preamble so far as the inhabitants of this city are concerned? Will it in point of fact put an end to the delay at present existing in the courts, or provent debtors leaving tile colony without paying their debts? for we cannot see that any other evils are therein pointed out which affect debtors or creditors who reside in this city. By giving a concurrent jurisdiction over sums of similar value it is more likely to create confusion, and would necessitate, in order to confusion, and would necessitate, in order to give any effect at all to its provisions, the constant attendance of a second stipendiary magistrate in the city. It would be very well to pass a short act, giving the magistrates in all the districts named in the second clause of the bill, except the first, which is designated Victoria District, and comprises Victoria city and district, Esquimalt, Saanich, Metchosin, Highland and Sooke, the same jurisdiction which the judge of the Inferior Court of Victoria can exercise Inferior Court of Victoria can exercise within his district. It is essential to the speedy recovery of debts and claims that some new arrangement should be made for the Small Debts Courts, but we trust that the House of Assembly will hear the bill which is to be introduced by the member for Salt Victoria Jan. 14th, 1864. is to be introduced by the member for Salt Spring read, before agreeing to the first clause of "The Magistrate's Court Act." The latter would be found ineffectual for Victoria District without a supplemental act defining the right of the judge of the present Inferior Court to adjudicate in cases brought before him, and which, in spite of the Justices Act, would still be brought before him, and it will be labor and trouble thrown away to discuss the merits of an Act which does not provide one specific remedy in all summary suits. What a glorious state of confasion would arise if Jones were to summon 25 per Cent Cheaper Smith in the Magistrate's Court for $250 for goods sold, and Smith in preference to filing his set off for the same amount for work and laber, brings a cross action in the Summary Court for the same amount. There is nothing to prevent both parties getting a judgment. It is not our intention on the present occa sion to go seriating through the clauses of this bill. We shall take an opportunity of oing so hereafter, if the Committee of the Whole House ever go so far as to pass th first and second clauses. We must, however, draw attention to a few of the clauses, which strike us as excessively novel. In the first place clause 4th, which provides that "justices shall have no power to sue executors or administrators," would place any justice of the peace in this colony in a very peculiar position, if he happened to have a claim against the executor or administrator of a deceased party. This statute would prevent his recovering it.

The principle of arrest on mesne process or and principle of arrest on meine process or capais for small amounts, we do not approve of, and we are glad to find that the bill does not give any power to a Magistrate to order the ar-rest of any debtor on a capias ad respondendum : although, from many of the clauses in the act referring to the issuing of the writ of eapias, and from the schedule containing Wesleyan Missions. some forms with reference to writs of capital we should suppose that the framer of the Bill had either intended to give the power, or had supposed it to be inherent in all Justices of the Peace. If such a power had existed, or had been given by any previous clause of the Act, the 9th clause would have provided ample time for the defendant to make ar rangements for the payment of his debt, o for leaving the district as he might think proper, as it compels the Constable to serv a copy of the capias on the defendant at least five days before the return day thereof. An Act for the establishment and regulation of any court of justice requires very careful framing, and few but practical law yers can hope to succeed in drawing even a passable Bill. In the present instance w cannot trace any evidence of legislation in the clauses of the Bill. These who really wish the small debt courts to remain as they are, could not do better than suppor the Justices' Act as it is, as its passage would hardly affect the present system at all.

PUBLIC AMUSEMENTS. We cannot fail to be reminded at this season of the complaint so general in former years, and to which we have more than once deemed it ours duty to advert, of the excossive dullness of Victoria as a winter residence for the miners. Is it impossible that we shall ever lose the stigma? We had ventured to hope a short time ago that the character of our city was in a fair way to be redeemed in this particular; but we have scarcely arrived at the end of the Christmas holidays, and we have not one legitimate place of amusement open. It is true that private entertainments and friendly and social gatherings appear to have increased in umber as compared with former years, but this is not sufficient to make Vietoria attrac- 18 inhabitants of Victoria cannot support a good company at the theatre. We have had amongst us for some time past, a theatrical sible to regard the miserable support which has been accorded them with any feeling bu regret. It has sometimes been alleged that the public entertainments in this city are not of a character which are worthy of public patronage and support, and if such were the case, we could hardly expect that the public should feel much interest in the performances; but when we find the public equally careless in supporting the efforts of those who have every talent and qualification necessary for the due rendering of the histrionic art, we can only come to the conclusion that there is no appreciation of the "buskin" amongst our citizens, and yet they are not slow to crowd the house when now prevailing in England; and to the tenor any special causes attract their attention to of legislature, in respect to recovery of debts the performances. This is in reality a subject not unworthy of the consideration of ou busines men, for as surely as Victoria once process for a debt of $50 is entirely repugshe cease to hold her own against San Francisco, as a winter residence for those who bles, by clause 35, which authorizes them have no absolute business to detain them here for the winter. Some effort should be made not only to keep Mr. Ward and his talented company amongst us, but also to make the latter part of his season so prosperous as to compensate in some measure for the want of success of the commencement.

the Roman Empire has the drama been wholly neglected in any country, and in the largest and most prosperous cities of the world in all succeeding ages the theatres have had a prominence accorded to them which shows that they have been liberally supported. With such examples before them surely the citizens of Victoria might do wors than encourage the legitimate drama.

given by Mr. Burnaby three months ago, but for some unexplained reason it has been allowed to remain inert until Wednesday last, when the Speaker announced that the subject would be brought before the House to-day. The honorable mover proposes to address the Governor requesting him to appoint the Council, doubtless following the system as in force in Jamaica and some of the other in force in Jamaica and some of the other West India Islands. In these colonies the "Administrative Committee," as it is there called, consists of from three to five members chosen by the Governor from the Legislative Council and Assembly, and presided over by him. Their duties are to introduce and support all Government measures. In Prince Edward's Island a somewhat similar body body exists, with this important difference, however, that the members are elected by the however, that the members are elected by the people for a term of years, from regular elec-toral districts, and do not hold seats in either of the other branches of the legislature. The atility of something of the kind contemplated ntility of something of the kind contemplated by this motion seems apparent. By means of the proposed Council, government measures may be brought forward in a mero complete and satisfactory form than has too frequently been the case, and much time and labor saved in the Legislature. A strong Government party will also thus be formed in the House, capable of exerting a powerful influence on the measures introduced either by themselves or by private members, and by themselves or by private members, and this fact leads us to consider the propriety of making the Council responsible to the popular branch of the Legislature. Unless this be done, the evils of irrecord. lar branch of the Legislature. Unless this be done, the evils of irresponsible government will be only augmented, by thus strengthening the Government without adding a corresponding check in the Legislature. Possibly the hon, mover of the measure may contemplate the introduction in his motion of a provision to that effect, but at any rate we are satisfied a majority of the members will are satisfied a majority of the members will be unwilling to aid in the formation of such a party in the House unloss a sufficient check is at the same time guaranteed. A MINISTERIAL COUNCIL.

In a new and small colony like this, where the Legislature is necessarily few in numbers, and there are no political parties of sufficient strength and importance to whom might be entrusted the carrying on of the Government, it may be desirable to strengthen the hands of the Executive, and facilitate the transaction of public business by some other means. The notice of a motion for the appointment of a Ministerial Council for initiating and carrying on the public business in the Legislature, seems to have been brought for some unexplained reason it has been allowed to remain inert until Wednesday last, when the Speaker announced that the subject would be brought before the House to days. It is just possible that Dame Rumor may be astray in this matter; the old lady adds, however, that the gentlemen of the Honorable the Council are not fangous for their punctuality or regularity of attendance, and that much delay and inconvenience to the public business is thus occasioned. A little more publicity, given to their proceedings would probably have a beneficial effect in this particular, and would also enlighten the community as to the individual views entertained on measures in which they are deeply interested.

EDITOR BRITISH COLONIST—Sin:—Can you or any of your readers inform me on what work the chaingang—or more politely. Pemberton's Corps of Civil Engineers—are at presentjongsed? Happening to stroll along the beach about three weeks ago, I came upon a party of a dozen or fifteen men 'held to compulsory service.' with their officers, in a bay a little beyond Clover Poin. They were at work on the shore, or rather were resting from their toil in the anjoyment of their noontide bivouac, but had apparently, been employed in dragging drift logs up from the sen. Passing the same spot yesterday I again saw them zealously resting as before, but surrounded by a greater number of drift logs, and clear evidences of recent work in sundry heaps of fresh chips. Now, being of an inquisitive turn of mind, I fell into a speculation as to what was going on. into a speculation as to what was going on At first I thought that, with a praiseworthy regard to health, the men were daily marched out for exercise, and that hauling the logs was simply performed for amusement. Buthat would not do, because the logs were being shaped and fitted evidently for some purpose—perhaps a fortification to be built, or a battery; or was it intended to construct a nicely gravelled road which runs around the nicely gravelled road which runs around the property of a few tortunate individuals with the beach, and so to afford a pleasant drive to the see. But as the more I speculated the more I got muddled, I thought I would just pop the question to you.

As the streets of our city are in such a safe and comfortable condition that nothing better can be desired, of course it would be unwise in our margistrial authorities to allow

But when the men have finished their present job, and as there is nothing for them to do in the city, could they not be employed in cutting roads to open up the Island? In a recent debate in the House of Assembly one honorable member suggested, I think, that £6,000 a year would be better expended in cutting a tunk road columns of our contemporary of yesterday better expended in cutting a trunk road through the Island, thus opening up the coun-try to immigration, than in subsidizing steamtry to immigration, than in subsidizing steamers direct to Panama. A wise suggestion and one which must ere long be acted upon, unless we mean Vancouver Island to remain a terra incognita, and intend to perpetuate the good old policy of the Hudson Bay Company in obstructing its colonization. Mines of Cariboo, British Columbia.

Van Winkle is a very wretched place, about a dozen log-bcuses, nearly all of them detestable grog-shops, which are the pest-houses of the mines, and the haunt of the rowdy and gambler. I determined to push on to William's Creek, the head-quarters of the mining operations of Cariboo, The snew, was in the trail six feet deep, quite hard in the meraing, but very soft in the middle of the day, making travelling exceedingly laborious. There was a large number of menemployed in earrying provisions on their backs between Van Winkle and William's Creek, over this snow trail. Many of them carried as much as 130 lbs, and this, too, when at every step they sunk to the knee, and often to the middle, in the snow. You may judge of the labour of such an undertaking when I tell you that these men were as long as sixteen hours doing fourteen miles, and carried as much as 130 lbs, and this, too, when at every step they sunk to the knee, and often to the middle, in the snow. You may judge of the labour of such an undertaking when I tell you that these men were lash of the chances of getting work were small indee ". Hundreds of men were leafing about, most of them hardy miners, seeking employment, and I sought in vain for work of any kind; nor was there any claim to be taken or purchased except at an enormous price, the success of a few claims on the oreek making holders confident and firm in their prices.

I returned to Lightning Creek, determined to risk my fortunes on it. I found my can in the Canadian Company all right—not the Canadian Company on Williams Creek which has taken out large sums, and the shares of which were worth $20,000, but is not paying now. The men were preparing to go to work, and they were considered the best working company on the creek. By agreement with the man I purchased of, my interest was worked by him at a cost to me of $3 per woek. If gold was taken out of the mine then I had to pay my share of $10 per day. This is called "bed-rock pay." If the claim pays nothing, then your workman gets only his food. Being desirous of getting to work mysolf I managed to secure a full mining interest, 100 feet, in the Noble Company's claim, on paying $200 for a share in the cost of water wheel, sluice boxes, and other machinery. We numbered five men, three of them old California miners, a friend of mine chinery. We numbered five men, three of them old California miners, a friend of mine and myself made up the number. We immediately set to work. We built a huge dam to keep the creek from overflowing us, cleared away all the drift logs and roots swept down by the winter floods, dug a long tail race or drain, strengthened our flume and embankments, all the time working in water so cold that the thought of it makes my logs and fingers ache even now. The claims are all fingers ache even now. The claims are all feet down, to come to the old channel, you will probably find gold, if there is any on the ground at all. Having dug our drains we prepared our shaft hole 18 feet long and 16 wide, about six feet deep. I wo cribs or logs shouldered into each other were built inside this, one for the water wheel, the other for the shaft. The shaft is a square hole 6 feet by 4, timbered as you sink with planks 3½ inches thick which cost 25c, per foot, and have to be not in with great accuracy, as the

We started together on foot, carrying our blankots and provisions, some bacon, flour, and tea. Haying no tent, we slept out under the trees—rather unpleasant, the nights betting cold. On arriving at Cottonwood, where I left my horse, I found he had straged away, and was nowhere to be found. I left him in charge of the "ranch" (farm) owner; but, as he was not responsible for animals left in his charge, I could get no redress. It is a clear loss of $150 to me. Mr. Ruskin on English Neutrality.

The following characteristic letter has been received from Mr. Ruskin as an apology for not attending a meeting at the Liverpool Institute, on Thursday last, for the distribution of prizes awarded by the Department of Science and Art: Beaver and Witney Inverness Capes, Zurch, 25th Oct., 1863. What these matters have to do with art may not at first be clear, but I may, perhaps, make it so by a short similitude. Suppose I had been esgaged by an English gentleman to give lectures on art to his son. Matters at lirst go smoothly, and I am ditigent in my definitions of line and color, until one Sunday morning, at breakfast time, a ticket-of-leave man takes a fancy to murder a girl in the road leading round the lawn before the hout windows.
